MARKETS IN CHRISTMAS ATTIRE

If you don't believe it's Christmas time, just take a trip through the various markets all over town. Center market is surrounded by a forest of pine and fir Kmas trees, with the bright red berries of the holy to give the required color and beauty to the scene. Up at the O street market, the standholders have taken such pride in the feative appearance of their stands that the market is one of the show places of the city. Wreaths, guzinads, helly, and all the emblems of the merry Yuletide are arranged in artistic designs, and it is surely worth one's while to go through this market fairyland.

Recruiting Officer.

Figures at the office of the adjutant general of the army show that in June last there were 7,000 applicants for entry into the United States Army. Of these itearly 6,000 were rejected. In November, 5,000 applied and a large percentage of these were accepted.

Adj. Gen. Andrews says that two causes could be assigned to explain these figures. One is that the recruiting officers instead of contenting themselves with waiting for applications have gone out and done what might be called missiemary work. Another cause would be the interest of a large number of unemployed. Gen. Andrews notes that towards the approach of the winter season there is very large desire to get into the army.

WASHINGTON HEBREWS TO OBSERVE HOLIDAY

action of Representative Sisson, of Mis-dashpd, yesterday on the floor of the pecially for Children and Poor Starts Today.

Starts Today.

Chanukkah, the Feast of Dedication, one of the most interesting of the Jewish half-holidays, begins this afternoon. It will be celebrated in Washington with a special children's entertainment to be siven at the Eighth Street Temple on Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. In addition to sona's and rectisations, Dr. Simon will give a stereoptican lecture on The Maccabers. Following the entertainment the Temple Sisterhood will spread a lumcheon for the children.

The historical background for this holiday, largely a children's festival, is found in the fact that in the year 150 for the children of the children of the children of the few martial heroes in Jewish history, rededicated to the services of one God the Temple at Jerusalem after its political by Antichus Spiphanes, who had set up a heathen shrifte.

Around this festival cluster many beautiful legends, one of which is to the effect that when the Temple was rededicated only a single cruse of eil was found unpolluted, but through the mirroulous intervention of God, this oil proved to be sufficient for eight successive nights, until other oil might be pressive nights, until other oil might be pressive nights. sive nights, until other off might be pre-pared. For this reason the festival lasts eight days, and the Jews light candles in their homes in celebration of Channikasi for eight successive nights, one on the first night, two on the second, and so on. The Feast of Channikash is a time for rejoiding not only on the part of the children, but for the jour, who are al-ways liberally remembered.
